Foreword

Bells are ringing, voices singing,
College days are gone and done.
Hearts are weeping, pals are leaving
But at last our goal is won.

Caps we've doffed before our Crow's Nest,
Sung farewell to house and hall.
Now we stand with these we love best,
Waiting, listening for life's call.

We are taking, but we're leaving
Memories, in covers bound.
A sweet account of life and living
Here you find it, true and sound.

DEDICATION

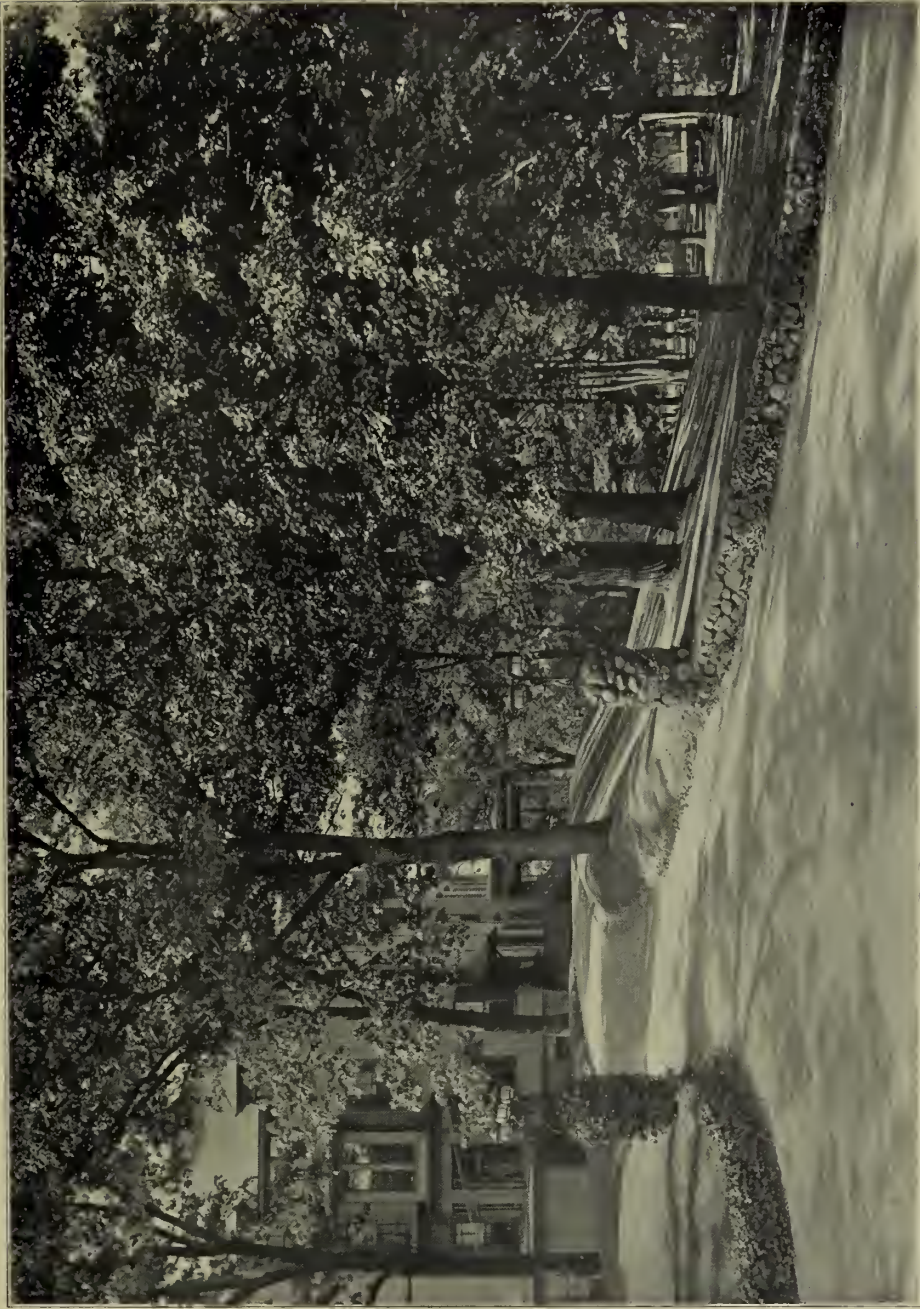

TO

KARIN I. ELIASSON

Whose gentleness and sincerity have made pleasant and bright our two years at Lasell.

In deep gratitude and appreciation for her kindness and thoughtful direction, we, "her class" of '35 dedicate this twelfth volume of

SENIORS

Alma Mater

Bound firm by a bond unbroken
Love for old Lasell
Take we now a pledge outspoken
E'er to guard her well.

Chorus: Alma Mater, fidelitas
Pledge, girls, for loyalty
Sing we now before we part
We'll ever faithful be.

Bright school days are quickly passed
Enjoy them while you may
Memories still shall them outlast
When we are far away.

PROM

SENIOR PROM

Senior Prom

The gala event of the Class of '35 was held at Longwood Towers in Brookline on Saturday evening, March 2. American Beauty roses, the class banner, and balloons all contributed to the color scheme of red and white, the color symbol of the class.

Those receiving the girls and their escorts were Miss Eliasson, class advisor; Miss Wright, Barbara King, class president; and Barbara Iris, prom chairman. The members of the committee were Barbara Heath, Norma Noonan, Bette Clark, and Sally Swanson.

Dinner was served at seven in the spacious lounge, and the scintillating music by Don Gahan, the soft lights, and those "special dates" who had come many a mile, all went to make a perfect evening to be long remembered by all.

Dancing continued until twelve, and the superb evening ended impressively as the girls sang their "Alma Mater."

BARBARA IRIS

Junior Prom

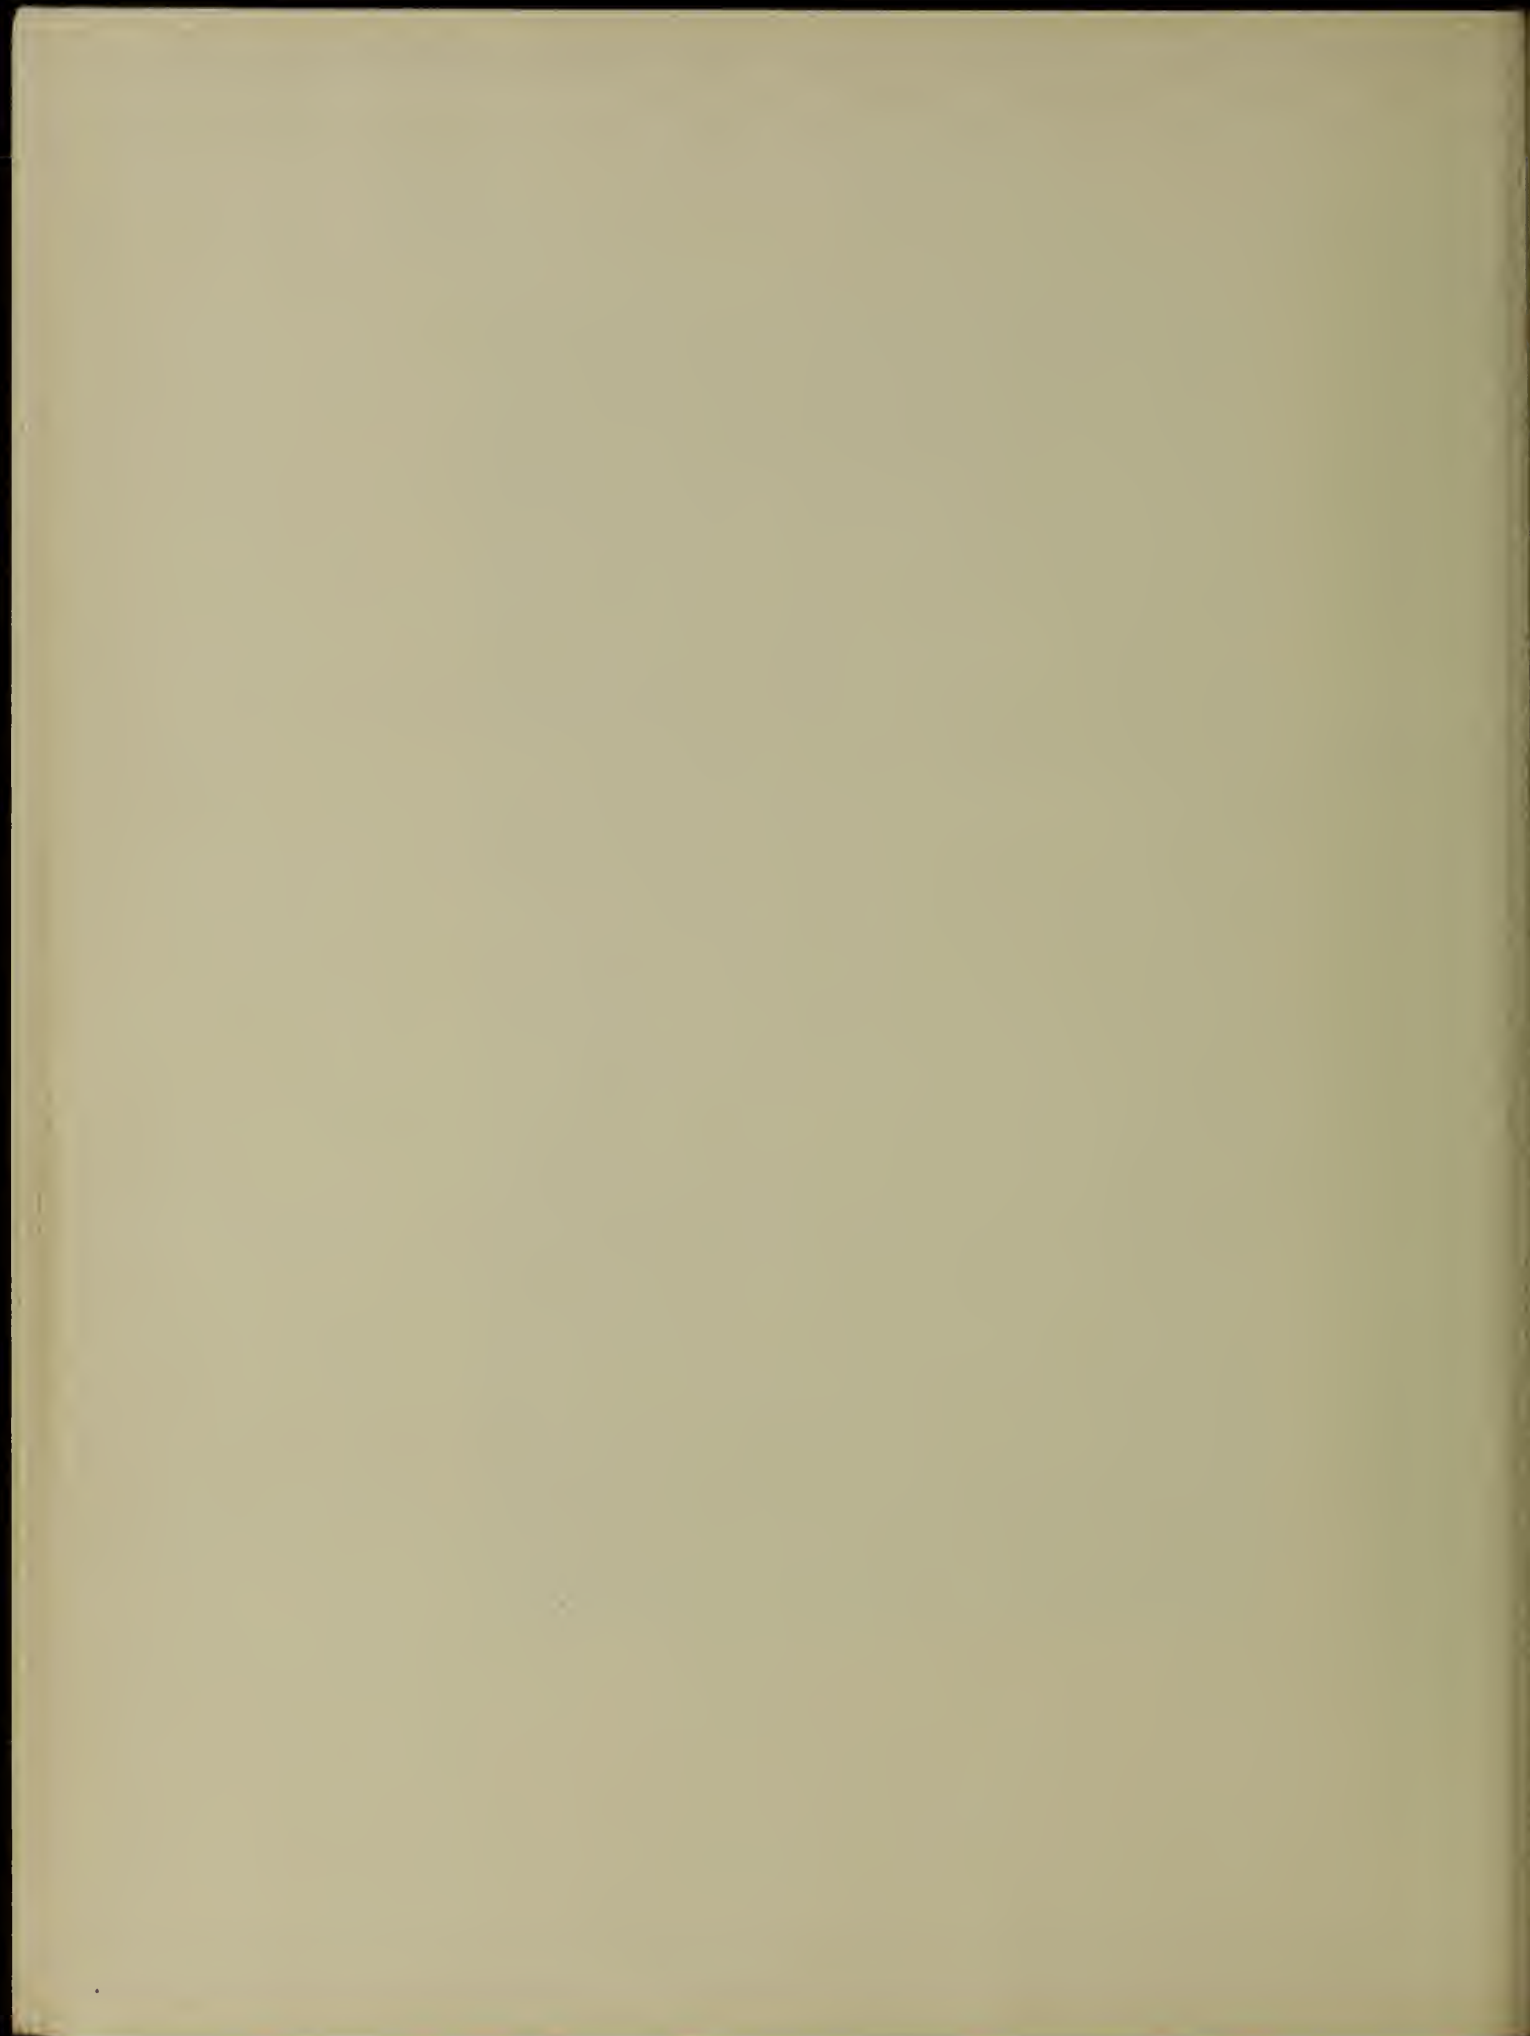

Snow, cold weather and busses, all three bring to mind the Junior Prom at the Woodland Country Club. March 10 was thought to be past snow time, but no, we arrived in a whirling mass of white.

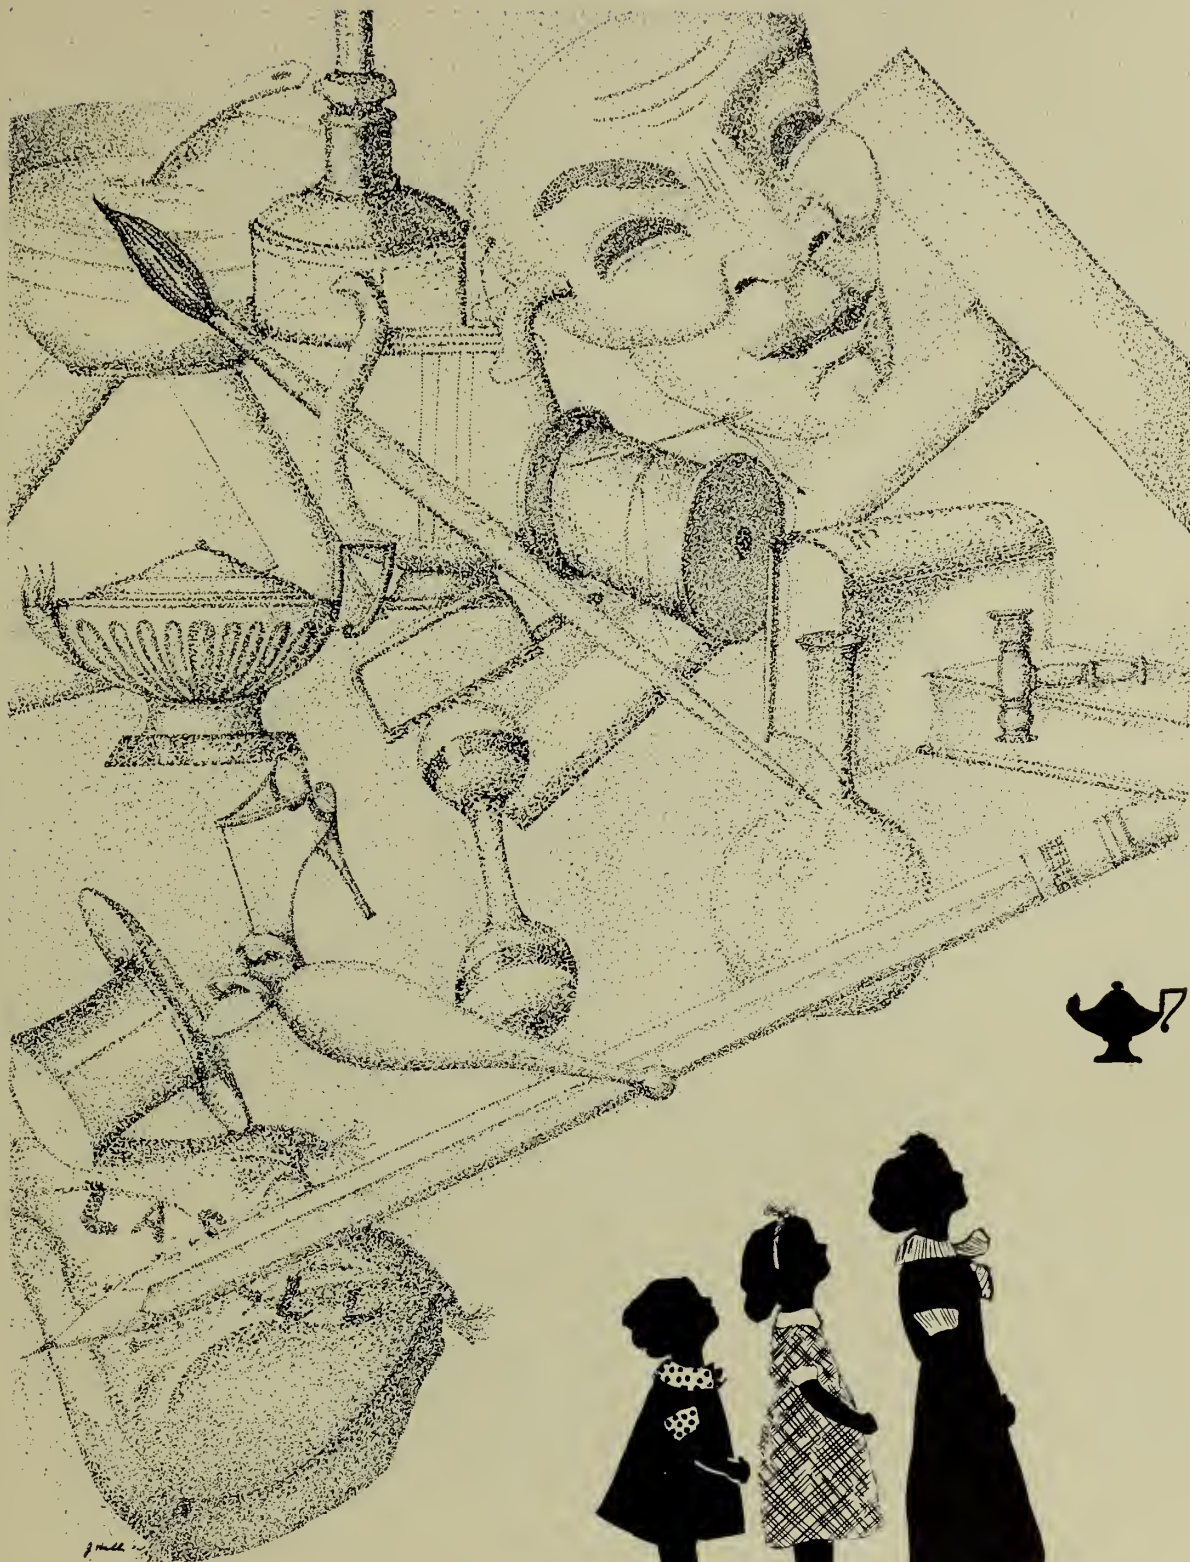

Dancing to music by the Harvard Goldcoast Orchestra we soon forgot the embarrassment of arriving en masse. Blinds proved quite entertaining—not anything like those our images had conjectured during classes the preceding Friday.

The evening glided merrily on with envious seniors peering in the windows. Many were the fluttering hearts as balloons popped here and there.

Then the warning chimes of 12.00. Like so many Cinderellas we dashed for wraps only to wait while anxious escorts urged cold engines through snow drifts to the door. At 12.30, our hour for filing in the main door of Bragdon, many elated expressions depicted the end of one more Junior Prom.

Executive Council Message

When we have left these walls
Of our Lasell
And whispered that last sacred soft
Farewell,
May each girl hold within
Her mind and heart
The cherished memories that
Are ever part
Of school days here.

Though scattered o'er the earth
From pole to pole
Each girl is seeking to achieve
Her goal;
And guided by ideals
Of truth and right
She struggles on to win
A valiant fight
For standards dear.

And though the way be hard,
Oh, let us try
To carry on and keep
Our standards high,
And scorn all that which leads
To selfish fame;
But may we reach our goal
In Lasell's name.

Endowment Fund

We of the Class of '35 have been grateful for the opportunity to contribute our assistance to the development of a fund which several Lasell girls, interested in the improvement of their school, began thirteen years ago. Although we have been able to give only a small share toward the swelling of this fund, it has been a pleasure to spend our time and strength in such a worthy cause.

Through entertainments such as the Senior play,—“So This Is London”; a concert,—“Stardust Gardens”; and the May Fete, we have been able to move steadily forward toward the goal of a new Lasell. The Endowment store in the Barn, which Lasell girls have patronized, has been of substantial benefit.

As our Senior year draws to a close, we pass on the trust and care of this fund to the Class of 1936, and we sincerely hope that they will do all in their power to strengthen it so that some day it will pour forth its wealth and power on our Lasell.

Athletics

Hockey and Soccer opened our athletic program for this year, with many outstanding players adding much interest and enthusiasm to both sports. The big Blue and White game brought forth many rooters and, although both teams played excellent hockey, the Whites won 2-0. Between the halves our talented faculty faced the student "All Stars" and managed to come through with flying colors.

During the winter season, swimming and basketball practice occupied the afternoons of those so inclined. Interclass competition and then the Blue and White game brought to a close our basketball season. Once again between the halves our faculty performed for us.

With spring came Track, Archery, Golf, Tennis and the long-awaited Crew. To the tune of "Stroke, Back" practices began every afternoon on the Charles. River Day finally arrived and with it came the great excitement of the more than enthusiastic spectators.

Tournaments in both golf and tennis were held, thus bringing to an end our athletic program for the year.

Throughout the entire schedule, every girl displayed her share of interest, enthusiasm, and fair play. May this outstanding spirit be indicative of each girl's character after leaving Lasell.

Processional

TUNE: Pomp and Circumstance

Alma mater dear, we sing to-night our loving last farewell to you Still striving on and upward faithful to the best that we knew
March class of '35 ever onward
Guided by the Lamp of Lasell burning bright, leading forward
March into the life ahead, filled with gladness
Though the thought we now must part leaves our heart heavy with sadness.

Recessional

TUNE: Pomp and Circumstance (second part)

Class '35 marching onward into life
With ideals high before us to follow through struggle or strife.
Our Lasell we are leaving, friends forever must part
Through the years we will cherish
mem'ries deep in our heart
Mem'ries dear of our Lasell after a new life we start.

Welcome

To our parents, who have made these years at Lasell possible; to our president, our dean, and our faculty, who have guided us mentally and spiritually; and to our many friends, whose sincere interest has been an inspiration, I extend, in the name of my class of 1935, a most cordial welcome.

We are celebrating tonight our twenty-fifth reunion. On June eighth, 1935, we held our class night exercises here in this same place, and we were told by various members of our class what we were, what we had been, and what we were to be. The years have opened up new paths, and our lives have been entirely changed from those happy-go-lucky Lasell student days. Tonight we are going to share with you the joys and sorrows of our first twenty-five years after Lasell.

LYDIA BARNES

WELCOME

TUNE: It's a Long Way to Tipperary

'35 now extends a greeting
To our friends gathered here
'35 now extends a greeting
And we hope it brings you cheer
To the new folks we give a welcome
We hope you like it too
For we've looked you over and decided
That we all like you.

Class of 1935 Prophecy

Oh, girls, I almost didn't get here for our 25th reunion for I've just been on a trip around the world, and the New York boat docked only a half hour ago. I had barely time to jump in a taxi and simply fly over here. I'm breathless! The funniest thing happened. I noticed the sign on the cab said, "E. Richardson, Town and Suburban Taxi Service; Special rates to Lasell Students." Well, we know where Teddy got her training.

With me in the car were Kay Peck and Doris Jones whom I met on the boat. Kay is a traveling saleswoman, you know. Let me see, what is it she sells? Oh yes, collars! And Doris had just returned from giving concerts before Europe's crowned heads. Hank was also with us for she is taking a temporary vacation from her job in a traveling agency and is having a busman's holiday traveling around the earth.

There was quite a party of old Lasell girls aboard who left us at New York. Among them was Dotty Charlton, who is now a dressmaker of note and who was returning from Paris with a sheaf of the latest styles. Dot told me that her greatest rival in New York is Millie Condon, also set up on Fifth Avenue. On board, besides, were Eleanor Ramsdell, the wife of an eminent New York physician; and Hillie Weigold, who is a "blues" singer of great popularity.

It appears that a good many of Lasell's "white doves" have alighted in the great metropolis. Stopping at Ellis Island we saw Mary Burnham acting as interpreter for the arriving immigrants. This is an art she acquired after sitting for a year in Mademoiselle's French class next to "yours truly," who often fell asleep and needed quick assistance in translating Mademoiselle's questions. On the island also is Marge Bouvier who, all tricked out in a neat uniform, acts as a boat starter and sees to it that everyone gets there on time!

In the city itself we find Lil Tobias and her millionaire husband living in a very modern pent-house which scrapes clouds; Phil Stuart and Josie Moore installed in Radio City as comedian and stooge, respectively; Barbie Iris and Martha Parsons living in a one-room flat in the Bowery and having the most hilarious time serving four course dinners a la Miss Eastman; Ruthie Fischer and Lib Swett who have usurped the place of Miriam Winslow in the dancing world; Barbie Young, a lawyer famous for the making of wills, who with her partner, Gertrude Morris, composes the famous firm of Young and Morris, Inc.; Bee Sharpe, a buyer for one of those select little shops; Norma Noonan the star reporter for the New York Times; and Bette Clark dressed up in a tricky smock and one of those beret-things, with an easel and paints at her elbow, who says that Lydia Barnes is her most popular model.

Lasell, it seems, has taken to the air verbally as well as literally, for we find Mary DiRico a radio announcer and Billie Walsh with her co-pilot, Evelyn Gagen, making daily flights from New York to Boston.

The city which ranks next in its number of Lasell inhabitants is Washington, D. C. Here are the two Dennies, full-fledged society matrons living across the street from each other. They confess, however, that they don't see each other as often as they would like, for one is a Democrat and the other is a Republican. Sally Swanson is a lobbyist with her finger very much in the political pie; and Fran Findlay represents the Alma Mater in Congress. Peggy Wood presides in state over the White House servants in her capacity as head housekeeper and Gertrude Heath is the President's private secretary, running his affairs with the greatest precision. Pauline Kelly fulfills this office for the First Lady of the Land. Marion Cruickshank is the White House janitor, an exalted position which consists merely of opening and closing windows. Franny Parker, after fourteen years' bad luck has turned communist and holds many an open-air meeting to uphold her cause.

But I must return to my trip and tell you whom I saw abroad. The first person we ran across was Ruth Ann Putnam conducting a select school for little American girls in London. She told us about Jane Brackley, who is studying music in Vienna, together with Polly Philbrick.

Puffy is the lofty proprietor of a most exclusive beauty salon in Paris. She numbers among her patrons Pris Rimmel and Kay Vargas who have kept their school girl complexions after all these years.

Phyl Symasko now runs a girls' camp in Sweden.

Stopping off in Egypt, whom should we find but Dot Panesis and Sophie, archeologists of great industry, who acquired an aptitude for their profession by looking for things in the senior room.

But you can imagine our surprise when we discovered Charlotte Barnes in deepest Africa, of all places, teaching hymns to a row of solemn black natives. She told us that Pete Swift, her assistant, is raising money to endow a school for cannibal children.

Nina Williams, we discovered, is in Moscow running a college supplies store which is extensively patronized by the Russian students.

In India we found Ginny White married to an English diplomat and the great lady of an Indian village.

Japan was the temporary residence of Maida, who was seeking local color for her latest book which is now a sensation, I hear.

We ran across Hilda Wood and Pauline Mitton in Hong Kong. They are touring the Orient in Hilda's trusty old Ford.

Bernice Silva is in China teaching sewing to the Chinese girls, and she maintains that they are much better at it than Lasell girls ever were.

Coming back to the United States we took in a movie in New York and saw Janice Piper and Caroline Smith who are succeeding Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in popularity. In the news reel we saw a picture of Anne O'Brien's orphanage which is known as a model of its kind. Roberta Morrill, president, also is pictured giving a speech before the Federation of Women's Clubs, among whose notable members we spied Charlotte Eames, Ruth Blaisdell, Millie Johnson, and Marion DeBiasi busily taking notes.

Following were Marjorie Long with her learned husband at a Harvard professor's banquet; Gretta Sherman who is now Princess So and So; Dot Friend, famous for her high-bred horses; Pat Meyer modeling the latest fashion creation; and Virginia Bolt heading the W. C. T. U.

The Lasell news from the rest of the country is as follows: Marion Cleveland with Barbara Briggs' assistance has started a cooking school in Kamchatka; Margaret MacNaughton is happily settled down and living a life of ease in New Jersey; Roberta Leonard became the wife of a minister, and they say she writes all his sermons for him.

I received a letter from Pris Winslow the other day in which she tells me that she and Esther may now be heard on the radio every Wednesday afternoon at four in "Tea Time Tunes."

Bannie, I hear, is a woman doctor whose favorite remedies are cod liver oil and sulphur and molasses. Barbie Hamilton married the heir to the five and dime millions and has established a red and gold gift shop in Auburndale for the express benefit of Lasell girls. Villa is today's highest paid radio entertainer, whose specialty is bedtime stories for the kiddies. Barbara McKelleget is a traveling photographer who takes publicity pictures for Lasell.

Gebby and Rae Whittemore are doing a sister act on the stage and are famed for their witty repartee.

You can't guess where I found Barbie Heath and Molly Upham! They're teaching the culinary arts to Dartmouth boys who are going to marry professional girls. Most of them take this course in self-defense.

Allie, of course, is ecstatically settled in California and is the proud mother of four fine sons, William, Wilson, Wilbur, and Wilfred respectively. (She calls them Will for short!)

Thelma is a reformer who hastens hither and yon making impassioned speeches in support of her latest reform.

In the world of sports we read about Hawkshaw who is winning fame as a successor to Helen Jacobs; Harriet Petz who captures all the honors in the swimming line; and Shy Anderson who is another Babe Didrikson.

Last of all we see Cindy who started as secretary to a bank president and is now Mrs. President, no less.

So we leave the class of thirty-five. May they continue as they have begun, with a large measure of health, success and happiness.

BARBARA ORDWAY

Class Will

In the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and thirty-five, we, the Senior Class of Lasell Junior College, town of Auburndale, state of Massachusetts, being, in general, in sound state of mind and body, do hereby proclaim this our last will and testament.

To the future occupants of Gardner Hall, the present occupants bequeath the mail box at the foot of the hill, a receptacle for the greatest portion of Gardner talent.

To future occupants of Carpenter Hall, the present occupants bequeath an inexhaustible supply of matches with which to supply the needs of the adjacent barn.

To future occupants of Clark Cottage, the present occupants bequeath a special bus to run between Clark and Waltham on Saturday afternoons.

To all future Seniors, the present Seniors bequeath their bigger and better rooms with the encouraging assurance that it is as easy to clutter a large room as a small one.

To frequenters of the Barn, Gardnerites bequeath an elevator, to be operated between the Barn, and the front steps of Gardner, especially during the winter and early spring seasons, at which times the condition of the ground causes a great and needless expenditure of youthful energy.

To the future staff of the Lasell News, the present staff bequeaths the ever present bugaboo of arranging headlines at the zero hour.

To all future members of the corrective classes, the Senior victims bequeath the bars, upon which to hang themselves every Saturday morning.

To the Orphean Club, the senior members bequeath patience, fortitude, unshatterable nerves, and the magic hour of 4.10, every Wednesday afternoon.

To our sister class, the seniors bequeath the varied, but effective water-holding receptacles, to be employed exclusively against invading Juniors, during the heat of the cap and gown struggle.

To our Junior sisters, we bequeath the opportunity of bettering their health and appetites, by an early morning sprint from their respective senior beds, to the Bragdon dining room.

To Helen Meyercord, Eleanor Ramsdell bequeaths her creed "Haste makes waste" —or "Better late than never."

To Europa Harris, Nina Williams bequeaths her giggling supremacy.

To Virginia Manness, Hildreth Weigold bequeaths her diving championship.

To Babe Shaffer, Kay Peck bequeaths the multitudinous letters which adorn her gym bloomers.

To Hildegard Baxter, and Betty Watters, Ruth Fischer and Libby Swett bequeath their hips-hips-hooray enthusiasm.

To Peg Raymond, Hatty Petz bequeaths her smile.

To the future president of the Student Council, Puffy Selby bequeaths her congeniality.

To the Dance Club, the Senior members bequeath a generous supply of liniment for aesthetic bones and muscles.

To Bobby Warland, Lydia Barnes bequeaths a portion of her dignity and reserve.

To Mary Smith, Thelma Larkin bequeaths her great yearning for knowledge, together with all the prescribed essentials—namely a comfortable bed, conveniently adjacent to the radio; soft pillows; a ready supply of magazines; and a box of crackers.

To Margery Gibby, Norma Noonan bequeaths her catalogue of "New and Unique Excuses for Every Situation."

To Frances McNulty, Diana Gardner bequeaths her high heeled evening slippers.

To the worthiest Junior, Cindy King bequeaths not only her presidency, but the character and personality that make the title ring true.

To Posterity, the Senior Class bequeaths the tradition, the friendships, and the many happy hours, which become so firmly rooted in the heart of every Senior.

In testimony whereof, we have placed our signature upon this, our last will and testament, at Auburndale, Massachusetts, this eighth day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and thirty-five.

Signed

Senior Class Song

TUNE: Washington and Lee

The class of 1935 we love
All other ones we think it far above
Each hour we have spent in work and play
Are cherished things that time can never take away.
And as the years roll on, as years must do,
Our backward thoughts we'll ever turn to you;
And we will always stand by to the end, to the friend,
Thirty-five.

Farewell Speech

As our Twenty-Fifth Reunion draws to a close and we have relived for one short hour, those happy days of our Senior year here at Lasell it is again time to bid you farewell. It is as difficult and unwelcome a task as it was twenty-five years ago. My feelings are now as they were then, and so I repeat the words and wishes we all shared in 1935. And now let us recall our parting message of twenty-five years ago:

"We are gathered here on the platform for the last time as the Class of 1935, but I feel certain that we shall gather here many times in the future, in our recollections—recollections of happy hours and firm friendships. For the past two years we have worked together, enjoying each day the contacts formed among ourselves, and the associations made with our teachers. During these years each one of us has pursued her own course, shaping in some measure her future life. No matter what course each has adopted, we have, indeed, needed guidance, encouragement, able advice, and assistance. Our parents; our president, Dr. Winslow; and the faculty have performed this service. To them we extend our appreciation, with the hope that in the future, we can justify the care, attention, and time they have devoted to us.

"We shall encounter undreamed of perils and hardships in these troubled times, and the road before us is not a smooth one, but one that will often appear rough, dark, and dreary. However, with the accomplishments and experience of the past as a guide, we should have little to fear. The co-operation which we have learned together as a class, we shall continue by giving our best, willingly and unceasingly.

"We leave the Freshmen and Sophomores (our younger sisters) with much envy because they have more glorious years at Lasell ahead of them, and may they all meet the oncoming years with renewed enthusiasm and success.

"To the Juniors, Lasell Seniors of next year, we pass on our 'Lamps' with the hope that they may for them light happy and memorable days in 1936.

"There is something final in 'Good-by', yet our leaving tonight is far from being final, because our memories of Lasell days will last forever. So may it take more the aspect of a wish and a hope for each of us, in the fullest sense of the word 'farewell'."

Strengthened to meet the challenge of time by the years we have spent here at school, we bring to an end this Twenty-Fifth Reunion.

And now, we as the Class of 1935 reluctantly take leave of you—our friends, teachers, and classmates.

And to you—as members of the Class of '35—my word is "Farewell," and my wish, "God speed."

BARBARA KING

Farewell to Gardner

Here we stand in front of Gardner, our hearts filled with memories. Happiness—how much we have known within these four walls—how little sadness.

Friendships more securely tied, for we have lived as one family, sharing each others problems, thus making the burden lighter. As I gaze at Gardner I see a group of girls enter in September laughing and talking, two by two; continuing to gaze, I see emerge in June a wiser group united in a bond of true friendship.

This house situated on a hill, which has many times been the bane of our existence, will always stand as a symbol to us of a year spent in the pursuit of knowledge and fun—knowledge that will help us face the years to come, and fun that will brighten many future hours with its memories—such memories as Miss Wright's continual message to third floor to please be quiet, and Miss Hoag's perpetual shushing at fire drills. To these two we offer apologies for misbehaviour, and we hope that next year's group will be true "white doves."

Gardner, we bid farewell with gratitude and sorrow—gratitude for giving us this year of joy, and sorrow at leaving this house and its associations.

KATHARINE PECK

FAREWELL TO GARDNER

TUNE: The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise

Farewell, to all the happy hours we've known,
To halls that echo work and play alike
We bid farewell to Gardner Hall, our own,
As memories in our minds unfold.

BARBARA YOUNG

GERTRUDE MORRIS

Farewell to Carpenter

We of Carpenter Hall have enjoyed a short but happy two years of work and play together. We have made many and lasting friendships and have done much to make this part of life's voyage become a precious memory. As we go on we shall recall the joys of comradeships which have helped to bear us over many difficulties.

We face our senior home now with hearts that beat with gladness but with regret. We have reached our goal at last, but we are parting from much that we hold dear.

This sheltering house has been a welcome refuge where we found peace and rest. Our understanding teachers have never failed us when we needed their kind guidance.

Each day we have grown to know and love our Senior home more. And now we part from it and those with whom we have shared its peace and joy with heavy hearts.

We take with us bright memories

We leave happy wishes for the future.

LILLY TOBIAS

FAREWELL TO CARPENTER

TUNE: Tommy Lad

Carpenter, Carpenter, we bid our fond farewell,
As our parting draws near, and our hearts begin to swell
In a kind of yearning longing way,
That makes us hope some day
We may return to these dear walls,
When fond our memory calls.
Carpenter, sing we sadly, our farewell.

Farewell to Clark

We who chose to live in Clark have not been unmindful of the distinction our house has held. As we have tried to escape the ears of those in charge, the creaking floors have literally spoken, proud to remind us of the fact that Clark is the second oldest house in Auburndale.

Our oft-envied proximity to Bragdon has denied us no prominence. We confess it has often caused much undue comment, especially when we have wanted to stay up "just a little later."

Old Man Winter granted us the privilege of a short-cut across Bragdon lawn, but such a daring feat in spring would doubtlessly have meant forfeiting one of Franklin Roosevelt's crisp, paper dollars.

Safely inside—for sometimes Caesar's welcoming bark has made us question our security until we have reached the second floor—we have felt the homelike atmosphere of our small house. Many a good time have we had gathered around the radio with someone banging away on the typewriter, while others have discussed their latest conquests from Amherst, Cornell, and points both east and west. So interested have we become in hearing details that we were totally unaware of bells until a teacher's voice called up the stairway to remind us that we were, after all, in school.

The year together at Clark will hold memories that are bound to serve as ties and to continue the tradition of a happy Senior year.

BETTE CLARK

FAREWELL TO CLARK

TUNE: Forgotten

We stand here before you to-night
In the light of the torch's flame,
And our voices raise to you Clark,
Singing praises in your dear name.
Through the years, loving memories will linger
Of our friendships and happy days here.
And though it's now farewell forever,
Our loyalty stands through the years.

Farewell to Bragdon

"Farewell! a word that must be, and hath been,—
A sound which makes me linger; yet—farewell."

We, the graduating class of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, are gathered together before you tonight, dear Bragdon, with sadness in our hearts. Hosts of valued memories crowd our minds as we linger here—some small and trifling to the outward eye, but dear to us because of their associations. Some of those trifling thoughts are of the grades that we have so anxiously awaited, not too patiently, only to see the sign "No grades given out here" on Miss Beede's door. There have been other mornings at this same office when we have applied for a little pink slip, an admission of our tardiness, and have been greeted by Miss Beede's never tiring smile.

Here also remain with us memories of a different sort, memories of those first "dove" meetings that have proved so very dear to all of us, and those chapel and vesper services that have left in our hearts so much that is helpful. Deep in our hearts we will carry with us not only these memories, but friendships which we have made among our fellow students. These friendships will follow us out into the world and lighten the way.

Now that these years have brought fulfillment in our effort to secure a diploma, we turn away with lagging steps. May many other graduating classes step out from within your portals with as great a love and respect as we have had for you, dear Bragdon—and so—

"Farewell! a word that must be, and hath been,—
A sound which makes me linger; yet—farewell."

MARTHA M. PARSONS

FAREWELL BRAGDON

TUNE: Juanita

Bragdon, we sing
A parting song! Farewell to thee
Our voices ring
In loving memory
Of the years now past
Joys and laughter in thy halls
Friendships that will last
Bragdon, hear our call.

Our torches flame
And our eyes with tears are bright
Softly thy name slips into the night.
May thou watch forever
From thy place upon the hill
Though our paths may sever,
We shall love thee still.

Introductory Flame Speech

Oh burning fire, leap high tonight. Send warmth and light far down our memories' path, and make our past thoughts glow. With your flames of multicolors sanctify our years of college life. Red for our laughter and gayety. Keep those happy thoughts tipped with vivid flame. Blue for our loyalty to you. Shed that color of truth as a veil over the coming years and soften them. Green for the everlasting freshness and coolness; and white for purity. Burn white tonight, oh fire, and in your heart consume, yet make immortal our love for those offerings that we bring. As the Phoenix burns and rises from its own ashes, so let our tokens rise more brightly than before.

Oh burning fire, leap high tonight. Send warmth and light far down our future's path, and make our new thoughts glow.

POLLY PHILBRICK

Gardner Flame Speech

Into these flames we of Gardner give this pipe as a symbol of the friendships that we made at Lasell and wish to keep in the years ahead. Last night when we gathered for our last meeting together we passed this pipe around the circle; and following the custom of the American Indian, we pledged everlasting friendship. Just as the Phoenix in days of old died in the flames and rose again from his own ashes, this pipe shall be destroyed by fire and from the embers shall rise the symbol of our friendships that shall last forever.

For one year we have lived in Gardner and been protected by its mighty doors. We have strengthened old friendships and established new ones during this time. Now, we seek to commemorate these friendships by throwing our material symbol of them into the fire.

Oh flames! burn and destroy this pipe, but send into the air with the smoke and fire the friendships for which it stands. As the wind carries the sparks and ashes from this fire to the ends of the earth, let it scatter everywhere in all sections the love of the Gardner seniors of 1935.

And now, as I throw this pipe into the flames, the heart of each Gardner girl goes with it in pledging true and lasting friendships to every other girl that they may remember each one forever. Oh beautiful flames! take this our pipe; burn it; but throw our love and friendships into the air that it may reach us, one and all, wherever we go.

JANICE PIPER

Carpenter Flame Speech

At last the mystery is solved and the terrifying ghost of Carpenter Hall is about to meet his doom.

Old ghost "Creak in the Stairs" has been defeating the hand of justice by allowing the students to indulge in many discrediting pranks; he has warned all perpetrators of the stealthy approach of a magistrate, thus allowing ample time for destroying all evidence of Lombardo's orchestra or concocting a plausible reason for the six extra scholarly maidens in the room.

We, by our strong and tenacious wills, have not succumbed to the temptations afforded us by this sneaky spectre. However, for the safety and morality of our successors, we struggled this year against him and now, O, God of Fire, I cast into your devouring flames this tempter, this sly, despicable, sneaky old ghost, "Creak in the Stairs."

ROBERTA MORRILL

Clark Flame Speech

Caesar may bark; the stairs may twist; the water only trickle; the bell not ring—and we still can love Clark. But there is one nuisance which we cannot overlook; it has bothered us as persistently before our biggest Prom as during our busiest week. Many a carefully smoothed dress has met its wrinkled fate on the bumps of this time-scorched board.

So, to insure for our posterity freedom from this bugbear mis-named an ironing-board, we throw a vital portion of its antiquated anatomy into the Flames, hoping that from its ashes (or from necessity) will arise, glorious in shining white, a new board strong enough to stand on its own legs.

FRANCES FINDLAY

Day Students' Flame Speech

Friends, Vulcan, and classmates, I come to burn our gym stockings, not to praise them. The good they did is unknown, the evil they did lives after them. Our dear faculty hath told us they were modest, if it was so, it was a minor asset for how many times they twisted around our legs in true barber-pole fashion, enhancing in becoming wrinkles the lovely (?) curves of our legs.

When first we received them clean, whole, and matched it was with some trepidation and no little hate for who of us day students could keep them fresh, together, and in the place where it behooved us to try to find them for the impending gym class?

I come now to speak at their cremation, they were our bane, our two-year pest and today, with not a tear to shed, we part with them. So now, old, decrepit, and not too clean, we give them to you, O God of Fire, and may the smoke they produce be of finer texture and better fragrance.

NORMA NOONAN

Crow's Nest

The last chapter is finished; the last page is turned; we are writing "the end" in our book that tells the story of two happy years.

Strangers we came and friends we part! We have been, every one of us, characters in a story—and as the tale went on, we became more and more firmly involved in its plot of sharing together our joys and burdens; of studying and working side by side; and most important of all—of unending friendship.

We have learned much of the finest of arts—comradeship. By its gentleness and understanding we have pushed back trivial differences and have played our part in a manner that befitted our title of "Seniors."

We are the masters of our destiny; and from the high place which we have at last attained we stand and review what lies behind us. By past mistakes we shall profit; and by understanding born of valuable experience, we shall separate the good from the bad.

Now, for the last time, we stand at the Crow's Nest and look out on our future. To you Juniors we leave this inspiration. May you treasure it and honor it as we have.

Senior Songs

CAP AND GOWN SONG

TUNE: Just A-Wearyin' For You

Lasell seniors pledge to-day
Faithfulness that ever may
Fill our hearts with mem'ries dear
Of the happy days spent here
To the school we love the best
May thy name be ever blessed.

Cap and gown we take for thee
So to pledge our loyalty
Treasured symbols of a trust
To a school that's ever just
To these years we've loved so well
Sing we sadly our farewell.

SENIOR TABLE SONG

TUNE: When I Grow Too Old to Dream

When the days are fair and bright,
Seniors sing in the springtime
For our hearts are gay and light
Our laughter rings in the air.
Together we'll dine,
Until we must part.
We sing out merrily to you
A song which sings through our hearts.

DEAR OLD RED AND WHITE

TUNE: Yale Football Song

Dear old red and white
For thee we'll work and fight
Stand by the colors true
For we're sure to win
So give a long cheer for '35
For thee we'll do or die
Fight, fight, fight for dear Lasell
And '35.

FAREWELL JUNIORS

TUNE: Follow the Gleam

Follow, follow Lasell's bright lamp
Through the coming years;
The torch that we seniors held
Now seen through a haze of tears.

Chorus:

Juniors, follow, follow its light
Of friendship bright
And wisdom's height
Follow, follow, it points the way
To success in your senior year.

FAREWELL SOPHOMORES

TUNE: All Through the Night

Sister class we now must leave you
for evermore
Loving thoughts we seniors give you
for evermore
May Lasell's true spirit guide you
When our class is not beside you
Sadly, sophomores, we now leave you
for evermore.

May Queen SongTUNE: Margie

Here's to our May Queen
So fair, so lovely on this May day
As in her garland robes we see her reigning
Over us all. We shall always Think of her when spring is here
O May Queen, the Crow's Nest e'er will be
A happy memory
And as the years go rolling by
We will cherish with a sigh
This jolly, happy May Day.

Privately Printed

The 1935 LAMP is a fine example of a limited edition, privately printed.

The staff of this book and an increasing number of other private publishers have been turning to organizations which specialize in the production of fine brochures, magazines, and privately printed books. For more than a century The Andover Press has served such publishers, planning and printing class annuals, descriptive booklets, genealogies, and other quality publications.
